

INTERNATIONAL SUSTAINABILITY AND CARBON (ISCC)

International Sustainability and Carbon Certification (ISCC) offers a comprehensive framework for the implementation and certification of supply chains that adhere to principles of sustainability, traceability, and deforestation-free practices. ISCC operates certification systems for different markets. These systems are ISCC EU, ISCC PLUS, ISCC CORSIA/ISCC CORSIA PLUS.

ABOUT ISCC

ISCC EU Certification is a specialized certification scheme designed to ensure the sustainability and responsible sourcing of waste and residue materials, particularly in the palm oil industry. It verifies compliance with strict sustainability criteria outlined in the European Union Renewable Energy Directive (RED II), covering environmental, social, and economic aspects of production and supply.

Following the ISCC System Updates on 28 April 2023, new strengthened requirements for waste and residue supply chains will come into effect on 1 August 2023. Notably, individual certification as Point of Origin for Palm Oil Mills and Refineries seeking to supply waste and residue material under ISCC will become mandatory.

This certification covers the entire supply chain process, from production to transportation and distribution, ensuring that waste and residue materials are sustainably sourced and meet high-quality standards.

BENEFITS

- Ensures compliance with EU Renewable Energy Directive (RED II) requirements, making it mandatory for waste and residue materials supplied to the EU market.
- Ensures compliance with ISCC PLUS requirements for markets outside of the European Union
- Certified waste and residue materials gain access to meet sustainability criteria, opening doors to new market opportunities
- Encourages ongoing monitoring, audits, and reviews to drive continuous improvement in sustainability practices and supply chain transparency
- Demonstrate their commitment to sustainability, responsible sourcing, and environmental stewardship in the palm oil industry
- Enhances corporate image and branding and improve access to global markets
